- Comment:

2. The plant is presumably being reconstructed on its former site. According to the reported location, it could be identical to the Selmarsh Plant for agricultural machines. From the exact production data and the variances of the plant sizes, however, it can be concluded that these plants are different installations, located closely together. The aerial photograph showed a Diesel-Engine factory between the Kalinin Plant and the VORONEZH Railroad Station, which could be, by now, the Selmarsh Plant. Additional reports are required to clarify the location of these two plants in relation to each other.
